Firms Begin Beaver's UF Drive Effort

More than 400 in-company em ploye solicitations are to begin this week as part of the annual campaign of the United Funds of Beaver County.

The employe campaigns ar a major part of the 1966-67 UF drive to raise $911.469 in support of more than 40 Beaver County agencies providing services to some 55,000 people an nually. Almost two-thirds of this year's campaign goal is expected to be realized from em-of production at Crucible Steel and UF chapter chairman, stated, "It is our hope that every employed person in Beaver County will make a Fair Share United Fund pledge at his or her place of employment. Many firms under the chapter plan program provide their employes with convenient payroll deduc tion pledging.

"This permits them to pledge their single UF gift throughout a full year. Anyone making a Fair Share UF pledge at work will not be called upon for an other solicitation at home. To prevent the home solicitation, they will be provided a United Fund window sticker.

Noted in the early campaign results is the 100 per cent Fair Share participation by the more than 350 employes of the Townsend Company. "Townsend is the first firm of its size in Beaver County to have 100 per cent Fair Share United Fund giving,' Schmitt pointed out.

The drive in Beaver County is one of the lowest in cost in the nation. Over 93 per cent of each dollar pledged will go toward supporting the following agencies in 1967: American Red Cross, Arthritis Foundation, Beaver County Cancer Society, Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Boy Scouts, Catholic Social Service, Children's Aid and Family Service, Children's Home, Society for Crippled Children, Girl Scouts. Health and Welfare Council.

He says the war is carried on at the expense of the Vietnamese people. Their survival, he declares, is or should be the real issue. He says this issue cannot be resolved by force but must be assured by patience and understanding in the "framework of a willingness to live and let

He has been crushed between irreconcilable forces

It cannot be understood too soon that his dilemma is not personal but institutional. No matter who the U.N. secretary-general is, he will inherit the irreconcilable conflict between Communist and anti-Communist.

The United States will tolerate no compromise, nor will the Communists.

The United States will not support the United Nations if it comes under Communist domination. It will not split differences with Communists, and it has learned by hard experience that Communists will split no differences with

They destroyed the League of Nations.

Irreconcilable forces can destroy the United Nations. The very fact that its secretary-general can see no way to stop the ideological "holy war" in Viet Nam shows what is happening. They have destroyed him.

Robert Bycroft

The sadness in Columbiana County's administrative offices is reflected many times throughout the county with the death of Robert Bycroft, veteran director of the county welfare de-

Mr. Bycroft was a devoted and efficient executive who gave a forceful and knowledgeable leadership not only in the constantly expanding and more and more complex field of welfare aid, but in juvenile work, education and other aspects of government and social programs.

His advice, his friendly counsel and noteworthy understanding won him friends on both sides of the political fences. He will be missed not only in the halls of the Courthouse and in the homes of the needy, but throughout the entire area where so many knew him so well.

It Would Be So Easy

Failure of the Dirksen amendment on school prayers, says its author, does not mean his battle to permit voluntary prayers in public schools has been los

It means only that the Illinois Senator's battle has not been won. He promises to keep fighting it. He might persuade Congress at some future time to amend the U.S. Constitution to permit something that never has been forbidden. It would be needless, but perhaps it would gratify

The U.S. Supreme Court never ruled against voluntary prayers in public schools. It declared that involuntary, official prayers cannot be tolerated within the meaning of the First Amendment to the Constitution. This is the amendment that says government in the United States cannot issue regulations concerning religion-the amendment that says church and state must be separated.

Anyone wishing to pray voluntarily in school or anywhere else has that inalienable right. No ones ever has dreamed of infringing it.

If Sen. Dirksen and his followers on this sensitive issue wanted to strike a massive blow for personal religious freedom, they would tell their countrymen at every opportunity to exercise their inalienable right to pray whenever they felt like it-not wait for offical prayers.

Meeting The Test

Highly encouraging is word that some 364 students will be enrolled when classes for the fall term begin next week at the Kent State Academic Center here.

This represents something like a 50 per cent increase over figures for the final quarter of the previous school year.

There can be little doubt that the Kent branch has come of age in an educational sense. And the future looks even brighter, with expanded facilities in the offing.

Continued energetic and far-sighted leadership and enthusiastic community support will assure that the academic center keeps the faith and meets the test for those who have placed their future in its hands to a considerable degree.

JOHNSON HAS had no ups or downs like that. His most spectacular foreign action, outside Viet Nam, was sending American troops into the Dominican Republic to prevent what he said he feared was a Communist takeover.

Johnson was shrilly criticized but the action had a good ending: The Dominicans finally got themselves a democratic government. Any praise Johnson got for this never matched the

That the world has been relatively quiet in Johnson's time - during which communism suffered setbacks around the world - may have been just his luck or may have been due in part to Johnson manipulations not revealed yet.

Here's What 'Abe' Wants

ATLANTIC CITY - Down the beach a bunch of graying huskies were singing. "On the Boardwalk in Atlantic City, we will walk in a dream. On the boardwalk in Atlantic City, life will be peaches and cream." And

They are old - fashioned men, delegates to an oldfashioned union convention, led by an old-fashioned labor chief who loves flowers and hates "tuxedo trade union-But, as the headlines of the next two years will prove. there is nothing old-fashioned Victor Riesel about this labor leader, I. W. (Abe) Abel, who plans to space-age the demands of the 3,250 locals of the 1.12-million-member United Steel workers of America (USW) in such fashion that it will shake up the land as well as the vast

"Abe" and his colleague, the golden-tongued Joe Molony and the intellectual Walter Burke, in synthesis believe that the American corporation should be basically responsible for the economic security of the worker, his family and his community. And soon all this must be the proper matter for collective bargaining over a union contract.

UNDER THIS PHILOSOPHY, the American businessman is responsible for providing everything from a guaranteed annual wage to a solu tion for traffic jams which chew up a worker's

Collective bargaining policy will be decided by the delegates here and the rank and file back home, but "Abe" is a man of the people and knows his people, so there is no doubt that he talks for them

What he says now will not be long remembered by a nation anxiously looking far to the east. But when his words burst on the country in big black headlines two years hence, and all the people are startled - as they always are when a major labor crisis looms - remember he said it plainly here.

And it should be noted that the basic steel industry contract covering almost 500,000 men expires on Aug. 1, 1968. Some 90 day later the people of America will be voting for a President of the United States. Thus, this 13th Constitutional USW convention is no mere exercise in lung power.

Small wonder, when the steel labor crisis ended just about a year ago. President Johnson was heard to muse to one of his cabinet

'We should have gotten 'Abe' to expire that steel contract in his year, not mine.

THE PRESIDENTIAL TERM of the silverhaired, 58-year-old "Abe" Abel expires in 1969. Last year he defeated the debonair Dave Mc-Donald with the slogan: "To hell with tuxedo trade unionism: let's return the union to the

What dominates this convention is not the parade of national celebrities, but the leaders' moves to involve the rank and file more and more directly in collective bargaining.

"Abe" and his colleagues want to bring them more into actual negotiations, though at the moment there is a 163-man Wage Policy Committee which is empowered to establish collective bargaining policy and then to approve what it believes to be the best possible settlement.

SINCE LAST OCT. 22 an eight-man collective bargaining review committee led by Joe Molony has been studying the problem.

And what will the rank and file want from the steel industry two years from today, on the eve of a most crucial national election? Judge it by 'Abe's' words: To him there is a three-fold program. He wants a comprehensive solution of all problems affecting a worker, his family, and his community when technological progress threatens to disrupt existing established patterns - including a guaranteed annual wage, permanent job security and life-

Federal Civil Suit Questioned

President Johnson may have been too busy to give personal attention to the civil suit just filed by the Department of Justice against an afternoon newspaper in New York City, but the new effect of the action is to assert for the first time in American history a claim that the government of the United States can abridge at will the freedom of the press.

The Administration proposes to do this by invoking the "interstate commerce" clause of the Constitution, just as it has done in legislation concerning "public accommodations" and "open housing.

To argue that when one newspaper is merged with another the writings of partic ular authors must be made available to all competitors to bid upon constitutes an amazing precedent. The federal government says in substance, that a writer cannot any longer protect his own material under the copyright law or sell it to whomever he pleases at whatever price he wishes, but that there has to be some kind of bidding contest among competitive publications

If this concept were upheld by the courts.

an author would be required to agree to sell his or her writings to the highest bidder. This also could disrupt the relationships between authors and book publishers whenever b o o k companies are about to be merged. The present controversy arises because the New York Herald Tribune was killed in a newspaper strike, and its assets belong to a

World Journal Tribune, Several writers are involved as a result of the civil suit. The court's ruling could have a bearing on the sale of news articles or features to any new company issuing an afternoon paper, the newspaper with a competitor in the same city. While antitrust laws forbid monopoly of a business nature, no statute supersedes the right of a newspaper to publish what it pleases. This principle has been repeatedly affirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court, which has declared that the first amendment to the Constitution establishes freedom of the press and that this cannot be restricted by laws invoking the right to regulate commerce.

Does the Department of Justice mean that the government may at any time conclude that because there are only two newspapers in a city and one is achieving a higher profit than the other or because one paper is losing while the other is making money, the special features in the latter must be offered at public auction and a competitor given the opportunity to buy them?

Oddly enough, in one section of the complaint, the Justice Department says:

"Daily morning and afternoon newspapers of general circulation published in New York City have differing appeals to and serve differing functions for readers and advertisers."

Then why compel them to print the same articles as their competitor prints? This and similar questions have never before been a matter for decision by the executive or ju dicial agencies and will not be unless the U.S. government now is to assume control of what the press publishes, just as is happening in too many countries of the world today

Forecast-Better

Ever since he set up shop, the weatherman showers of jokes about his alleged inaccuracy

But the ribbing may slow down considerably in the coming years. Electronic computers and satellites will make forecasts more accurate than ever before, the National Geographic Society says.

Meteorologists never have claimed, of course, that they could predict the weather exactly. Too little data, too little knowledge of atmospheric phenomena and too little time to make calculations have made precise predictions impossible. But forecasts long have been correct often enough to be useful

'We joke about the weather forecasts." observed English mathematician J. Bronowski. "but it was necessary to keep them secret during the war.

The revolution in meteorology began in the early 20th century when weathermen decided that two prerequisites were needed for truly scientific forecasting: a sufficiently accurate knowledge of the state of the atmosphere at a given time and a precise knowledge of the laws by which one atmospheric state develops into

League Tilts At Midland, Wellsville Top Grid Card

A pair of important league battles head the list of nine local grid contests Friday while on Saturday the East Liverpool Potters will be out to avenge last year's loss to Oak Glen.

Midland, a suprise winner over East Liverpool last week, faces possibly its toughest task of the season Friday on its home grounds when a powerful Beaver team invades.

AT STAKE is elimination from the Class A WPIAL race for the loser. Beaver, with a giant forward wall, has allowed only one touchdown in two games which they have routed the opponents by lopsided margins.

Meanwhile, Coach Joe Hamilton will depend on the passing of quarterback Jan Samuels who connected for 236 vards in the Leopards victory over East Liverpool and the running of his speedy backfield which includes Dave Vanlier, Jimmy Smith and Rich Mahurt.

MIDLAND remains one of two teams in the area still undefeated after two games. Stanton

Potters, Oak Glen Matched Saturday

Local with two shutouts is the only other team with an unblemished mark.

The other important league battle pits Toronto at Wellsville. The Red Knights are defending Buckeye Border Conference champs and have won their first two starts defeating league rival Springfield Local in the opener and last week getting by Carrollton, 8 - 6.

If game comparison's mean anything, Lisbon, a team Wellsville deteated last Friday, nipped Carrollton 13 - 12, so Friday's game at Wellsville's Nicholson Stadium stacks up to be a close COACH Ken Woods' Tigers are 1 - 1 after losing their opener to Oak Glen in a nip and tuck battle but have the offensive strength to give Toronto a long night.

With Midland and Wellsville sharing Friday's spotlight, Coach Bob McNea's Potters will attempt to bounce back against another local rival after dropping last week's encounter at Midland.

Both East Liverpool and Oak Glen are coming off losing games Oak Glen was no match to Wellsburg's aerial attack last week and was a 33 - 7 loser. The contest is expected to draw one of the largest crowds to Patterson Field since it matches two rivals and Oak Glen had the edge last year upsetting the Blue and White, 12 - 0, at

IN OTHER games Friday, Stanton Local is favored to win its third straight over Southern Local. The Red Raiders have not allowed a touchdown in two contests. Southern enters the game

Friday night after pulling a mild surprise last week at Leetonia. The Beavers have shown strength in their defensive unit plus the fact they have an accurate passer in Dennis Klembara.

SPRINGFIELD Local of Jefferson County will furnish the Beavers opposition at the Beaver Local gridiron in a Buckeye Border Conference battle. The contest will be Beaver Local's first league

The game was originally scheduled for Saturday but moved up to Friday.

A full card of Tri-County League games are on tap on the opening night of league competition. Louisville, the powerhouse of the league, will visit Leetonia while East Palestine goes to Sebring, Lisbon entertains Minerva and Poland is at Columbiana.

ONE OTHER game Friday shows United, a team rated fifth in the state Class A ratings last year, seeking its first win at East Canton, United has been turned back by Leetonia and Sebring.

-Junior Editors Quiz on-STARS

Our galaxy the milky way

including the stars, is told in the Bible. facts, but simply the results of their theories which have resulted from them. Our picture illustrates a view widely held by astronomers at present. They think that space contains huge masses of gas and dust, such as shown in the telescopic view of the Orion Nebula in (1). Such masses may start revolving, often assuming spiral shapes, similar to that of our own galaxy, the Milky Way. Dense masses of material inside such a gas cloud may be pressed together and assume rounded form, getting so hot they start to burn by atomic fusion their hydrogen turning to helium and giving our enormous light and energy. These become the stars or suns. Drawing (3) shows how our sun, spinning around, may have thrown off material which became the planets. Since these have cooled, they shine only by the reflected light of the sun.

Congress Urged To Alter Seaway Financial Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) gress was urged today by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to reorganize the St. Lawrence Seaway's financial structure and thus head off an increase in

In testimony for a Senate publie works subcommittee, Hart recommended passage of a bill, co-sponsored by himself and 14 other senators, that would change the Seaway's revenue bonds, held by the U.S. Trea sury, into capital stock. The Treasury then would collect dividends instead of payments on the Seaway's debts.

Phillip Hollar, vice president of the Association of American Railroads is expected to testify in opposition to the bill, which would also prohibit an increase in toll charges

Alan S. Boyd, undersecretary of commerce for transportation. testified Tuesday in opposition to the bill and in favor of the proposed 10 per cent increase in seaway toll charges.

Hart said the measure is necessary because the seaway has fallen behind in its payments to the point where a toll increase is being studied. He blamed low traffic volume in the early years of the waterway.
